Photoshop items A Photoshop item is a tool that performs a specific task like creating a photo effect or masking portions of an image. Items come with their own menus and toolbars, and allow you to adjust the settings to suit the need. For example, the Background Eraser item allows you to erase the background of an image, allowing you to easily remove a background that you do not want in the image. You can use the Background Eraser item found in the Tools panel and the eraser cursor. You can also select

"I would have to say, that with so many decisions to be made," asks Hugh Mackesy, "that even a determined person like myself might be ill-equipped to cope." Mackesy, who is a senior director at Deloitte Consulting, thinks our rapidly changing world makes it virtually impossible to keep up with the news. Mackesy admits that, during the day, he reads the newspapers, magazines and news websites, which he says, all have a similar narrative. "Although there are plenty of different voices, the essential message is that the human race is destroying the natural world for its own selfish ends and the bad guys are against a civil society that is very precious, and the good guys should be pitted against those who are trying to take away from them their rightful place in society. It's a very good story and very well-known," he says. But each night, Mackesy says he is able to stay focused on the book he is writing, his next musical project or the training sessions he is leading for his Deloitte clients. "So many different projects and people and places that I have to catch up on what has been going on, but if I am not doing that, and I am reading something completely different, it would be difficult to stay on track. It's the same with people. I have to keep track of what's going on with my family, my friends and my colleagues," he says. "It's great sometimes -- and something that I would not have foreseen being a stress for me. But for some people, it's really stressing out," he says.

He lists a list of friends who are struggling to cope with the unfolding news of the latest terrorist threat. Mackesy stresses that, in such a fast-paced world, we need to maintain a consistent mental regime in order to stay sane. Mackesy says his approach is to listen to music for 30 minutes every evening. "I start, and I leave the radio on just in case. I find that it really helps me to switch off," he says. "And I have a daily ritual of doing my exercise. It doesn't have to be every single day, but, because I have been doing it, it's become part of my daily
